RECORDS MADE IN WAR ON BOOTLEGGERS AND BOOKMAKERS

215 TAKEN IN YEAR AS GAMBLERS

Crusade on Horse Racing Men
Has Been Delayed By Legal Machinery.

The relentless warfare on bookmakers and bootleggers waged by the Washington Police Department in the past year or more has broken all records in the number of arrests made and in liquor confiscated, it was revealed today.

Commissioner James F. Oyster, who, with Maj. Daniel Sullivan, Superintendent of Police, has conducted the "war," made public today a statement covering the activities of the department in its attempt to curb these violations of law.

Record of Department.
Briefly stated this is what the department has done:
Arrested and charged 215 persons with bookmaking.
Arrested and charged 9,615 persons with drinking in public, operating automobiles while drunk and intoxicated.
Arrested and charged 3,322 persons with selling, transporting and manufacturing liquor.
Confiscated nearly 20,000 gallons of whiskey, gin, alcohol, cider, champagne, wine, home brew, cognac, beer, mash and extracts.
Destroyed 101 stills.
Confiscated forty-five automobiles, four wagons, four bicycles and one boat.

Praise For Police.
In issuing this statement Commissioner Oyster took occasion to praise members of the department for their work. He said he was more than pleased with the activities of the members of the force, adding that he believed Washington has one of the most efficient and loyal forces in the United States.

The report on bookmaking covers the period from April 20, 1920, to August 28, 1922. It shows that 215 arrests were made and that the courts disposed of twenty-nine of these cases. Three of those arrested died, leaving 183 cases not disposed of. The report also makes public the names of the persons arrested for bookmaking.

More than $500,000 in bond has been put up in the various precincts as collateral, the arrested man being released until he is called to trial. One hundred and ninety-four persons put up $2,000 bond; one put up $2,500 bond; one $4,000, and another $5,000.

The report also shows that twenty-three persons were arrested more than once. Samuel R. Beard leads the list, having been arrested six times; Charles H. Thomas and Harry Perskin follow with four arrests. Thirteen were arrested twice and six three times.

In ten instances the cases were nolle prossed; fines were imposed in about a dozen instances and five instances fines and jail sentences were imposed and then suspended. The first precinct leads in the number of arrests for bookmaking, with eighty-eight cases. Other precincts follow: Second, thirty-six; third, one; fourth, one; fifth, thirteen; sixth, thirty-three; seventh, six; eighth, six; ninth, four; tenth, none; eleventh, none; harbor, none, and Detective Bureau, twenty-eight.

Seized Much Liquor.
The police department in its bootlegging campaign seized during the fiscal year ending June 30, 3,042 gallons of whiskey; 207 gallons of gin; 628 gallons of alcohol; 686 gallons of cider, seven gallons of champagne; 2,992 gallons of wine; 497 gallons of home brew; 158 gallons of cognac; 472 gallons of unknown beverages; 10,175 bottles of extracts; 870 bottles of tonic; 878 bottles of beer and 7,648 gallons of mash.

The department also seized 101 stills, forty-five automobiles, four wagons, four bicycles and one boat. In the 9,615 arrests made for drunkenness, operating a car while drunk in public, the department was successful in getting 9,228 convictions. One hundred and forty-six of these cases were dismissed, fifty seven nolle prossed and 184 are still pending.

HEARD AND SEEN BY BILL PRICE

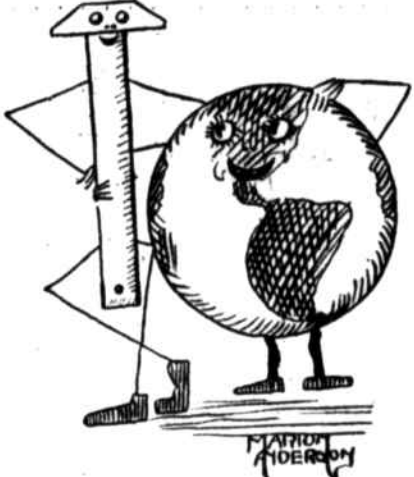

MEDITATION.
In a moment of silence there passed in review
Selfish deeds, kind deeds, and sins a few.
The things I had done, and left undone, they passed, too.
And I felt what every mortal soul has felt—and you—
That if I could (and I know I would) undo
The selfish deeds, the sorry deeds, and in lieu
Do things, say things, as I would now want to,
And so I resolved (and I hope you will, too)
That from now on naught will pass in review
But pleasant thoughts, cheery thoughts—
How about that, MERCURY.

SECOND FALL OF THE LITERARY CHAMPIONSHIP
"MASKED FAN" having won the first fall in the summer contest for the heavyweight literary championship of Heard and Seen, we are about to turn on the machinery for the second fall, and give due warning to all that "Masked Fan" threatens to win both falls, using any hammerlock available. So we are off, and the subject, as picked by the Office Goat, is this:

Maed Muller, on a hot summer day, Pined Peggy Royce, cutting hay. To her bosom friend, Constance Van Rile.
She cried, in accents veiled and wild:
"Why, Peggy is completely out of style."
She's still wearing 'em cut high. When fashion says they should be lower."
The other uttered a mournful sigh. Leaving Peggy still working the mower.

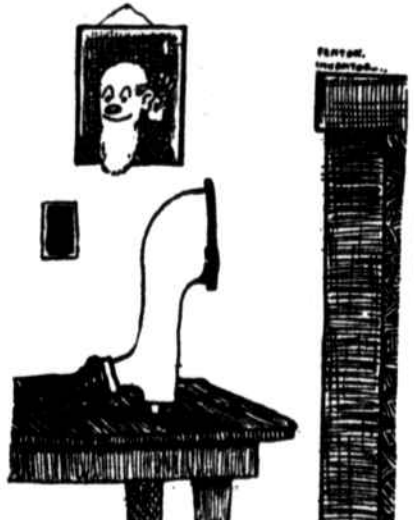

"The guy who said that prices were coming down must have gotten his tip from the guy who said that skirts were coming down," observes Uncle Ebenezer, of Ozon Hill, whereupon he gazed in all directions to observe skirt lengths.

OLD SAYINGS.
"Square with the world."

"Let's kiss and make up." Said she in a huff.
"Sure, I'll kiss you," said he, "But you're made up enough."
FLORENCE N. HOAGLAND.

NEW INVENTIONS.
Just attach one of these new inventions by Inventor FENTON to your party line and let the whole family listen in on the neighborhood news.

"I've called to see the old guy," said the planner.
"Er ladylike not 'ome," replied the plumed footman.

"YOU NEVER KNOW."
I verified a ponderous theme,
Of tragedy and death.
The editor returned my gem.
The while I held my breath.
I wrote some verses on love's young dream
Of broken hearts and sighs.
The editors sent back my theme,
Before my wondering eyes.
And then I penned this rhyme of love
With disappointment fraught.
O all the shocks I've ever had,
This was the thing that bought.

WHO'S LAYING "DOWN"?
Pan-Washington has a Goslin playing on its team this year.
Biff—We need some more, and maybe we'll get a whole flock of 'em if the opposition continues to hand out goose eggs.
HARPERS FERRY.

THE "CANDY ANKLE"
Norfolk has named her cake-eaters "candy ankles." He wears as fancy clothes as he can afford: to be found at fashionable hotels, pool rooms, dance halls, or parked on street corners, trying to be "smart" with every woman who passes; never works; always shy of change; sleeps until noon; hair slicked back with vaseline; thinks he is Rodolph Valentino or Wally Reid; thinks every girl is wild about him; goes home only when there is no place else to go.

"There ain't no such thing as a perfect man," observed Sally Rondell, of Chicago, who has been married five times. "I never saw a man yet who would hang up his right shirt or pajamas after getting 'em' out of 'em."

WHAT HE MADE.

Tommy—Out of a job?
Jimmy—Yes. The boss said he was losin' money on the things I was making.
Tommy—Wasn't there anything else you could do around the place?
Jimmy—I think not. Anyhow, he said I didn't seem to be able to do anything else.
Tommy—And what was you makin'?

Jimmy—Mistakes.

COLLINS AND BOLAND.
A Damon and a Pythian torn rudely apart by wayward fate,
Leaving poor Pythian all alone,
A mendicant at Freedom's gate;
A Collins brave, a Boland bold,
And standing out from the crowd.

Each risked his liberty and his life To free his chief from prison chain,
And throughout the "Easter week" of strife,
Did bravely fight, and still retain That friendship true, and the noble

A love unknown to eases or kings— The love of country, O high above,
The love of this love 'er earthly things.

But treachery, linked with Saxon guile, Drove deep a wedge between these two.
And full soon, alas, around the Isle The valiant "Dillon" swiftly flew.
Each nobly fought and while fighting fell.

On different sides—for Erin's weal, With motives pure, as we know full With hearts as true as tempered steel,

HUNDREDS ATTEND FAIR GIVEN BY EASTERN STAR

Numerous booths where for a dime one may win anything from silverware to an electric doll, and a large orchestra are among the popular attractions that provided amusement for hundreds of persons last night at the fair being held by the various chapters of the Order of the Eastern Star of the District in the Van Lanom streets. The fair will continue until September 9. The entire proceeds will be used for the benefit of the Eastern Star home and all chapters participating.

The most popular attraction at the fair for the children is the Van Lanom swings. The "hot lattie boys," otherwise known as "Lodie dogs," had a large following of children and adults.

HIGHER RENTS IN DARLINGTON ARE SOLICITED

Five Estimates on Value of Apartment House Given to Board.

Five estimates on the value of the Darlington apartment house, 149 A street northeast, were presented to the District Rent Commission today, during hearing of cases brought by the agent, H. L. Rust, against seven tenants.

The figures presented ranged from $41,280, the full value as assessed by the District, to $66,575.60, the property's worth if duplicated today, offered in testimony by William K. Reeve, appraiser of the Home Building Association.

Bates Warren, expert on local property values, appeared as attorney for the complainant. In addition to Mr. Reeve, he put on the stand F. Elliot Middleton, vice president of the real estate firm of Hedges & Middleton. Both witnesses said they had previously inspected the apartment house.

Mr. Warren, under questioning by Mr. Warren, said that the fair value of the property today would be $54,206, allowing for depreciation. Mr. Middleton declared the Darlington was salable at $50,000.

"The value of a building," he told the commission, "in my opinion is closely connected with what it can be sold for. I offer $50,000 as a fair valuation."

It was later brought out that the joint owners—the Kennedy and Davis Company and Samuel Ross—valued the ground at $7,190 and improvements at $42,810, totaling $50,000. The estimate of the District assessor was given by Mr. Reeve.

Both witnesses declared the condition of the property was good. Present rents at the Darlington range from $40 to $50 a month. The commission was told that gross rental returns in 1918 approximated $4,700, giving the owners a net return of $500; that in the two succeeding years the net return fell below the first figure, and that in 1921, the rents totaled $6,500, affording a return of $2,100. A fair rate of return could only be reached, the commission was informed, by making the yearly rentals total $8,800.

The tenants against whom complaints were made are J. S. Barrington, O. R. Johnson, George H. Pearce, E. H. Tompkins, Sebe Newman, R. Reichard and R. W. Chadwick.

ASKS 5,000 TO DONATE $1 EACH TO MRS. FRYE

Mrs. Artz Sends $5 to Fund for Hold-Up Victim's Widow. Total Now $107.

Have Washington people forgotten the commandment, "Love thy neighbor as thyself?"

This question is put up to residents of the city by Mrs. S. Artz, 3120 N street northwest, the latest contributor to the fund for Mrs. Samuel Frye, widow of the murdered Seat Pleasant grocer.

"Just think what a help it would be to that poor widow to have 5,000 people give $1 each," Mrs. Artz writes, in sending in her $5. "There are many who could and would give more. Let us rally round and show her that the Christian people of Washington have not forgotten the commandment of our Savior to love our neighbor as ourselves. "There is a committee should be appointed to buy her a small comfortable home, establish her and her children in it, and have a balance left to maintain them."

Mrs. Artz declares that the plight of Mrs. Frye has "created a feeling of sincere sympathy in the heart of every woman in this city, particularly those who are mothers of small children."

"They know," she says, "How they would suffer if placed in her position and feel very keenly her sorrow. The death of her husband is sorrow enough to bear, but added to that is her anxiety for her fatherless children, and the fact that she has no money to provide for them."

The contribution of Mrs. Artz brought the total amount of the fund to $107.

White House Concert.

The rapidly shortening days have compelled a change in the hour of the band concert to be given at the White House Saturday. The concert will be from 4:30 to 6 o'clock rather than from 5 to 6:30 as formerly.

HONOR RETIRING D. C. OFFICIAL

RETIRING CITY OFFICIAL GIVEN HAIL FAREWELL

Mayor C. H. Brown Guest of Honor of Colleagues in City Government.

Maj. Carey H. Brown, Assistant District Engineer Commissioner, was given a farewell dinner last night by seventy-five District officials who gathered at the District Tree Nursery, Fort Dupont, located in southeast Washington near the District line. Major Brown leaves his local post on Sept. 1 to take up his new duties at Camp Humphreys, Va.

Speeches praising the work of Major Brown were made last night. His service with the District was reviewed. Major Brown, it was pointed out, has been prominently identified with all construction work done by the District government in the past few years and was responsible for much improvement.

Maj. Raymond Wheeler, who succeeds Major Brown, was present last night, also Commissioner Cuno H. Rudolph and Maj. F. S. Beston, Assistant Engineer Commissioner. Clifford Lanham, superintendent of trees and parking, who lives at the nursery, was the host, with Mrs. Lanham the hostess.

Inspection of the historic fort, music and an outdoor moving picture exhibit was part of the program. Old-timers in the District service contributed stories of earlier days in Washington history.

WOULD RAISE $100,000 STATUE TO JUDGE WHITE

Congressman Hogan yesterday introduced in Congress a bill authorizing the appropriation of $100,000 for the erection of a statue in this city of the late Edward Douglas White, Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court. "A country grateful to his memory should not wait half a century to commemorate the fact that with the single exception of John Marshall he was the greatest of those who have headed the Supreme Court of the United States," said Congressman Hogan.

"In my opinion," continued the speaker, "the statue should be erected in bronze and be placed in a conspicuous position in the National Capital as a memorial to the son of Louisiana and the Confederate states who, as Chief Justice, did so much to construe our fundamental law for the benefit of a reunited country, and according to the rule of right reason."

RUSSIAN TROUPE ATTRACTS PEDESTRIANS' ATTENTION

"Yarmark," the headline attraction at B. Keith's Theater with week, created something of a sensation yesterday afternoon on the streets in the business section. Four eight-seated buses paraded and drew thousands of people to window, doors, and street curbs. The buses were decorated with banners, flags and other bright cloths and they contained the members of the Russian troupe which presents the offering.

"Yarmark" means carnival in Russian and until the days of the soviet they were given in every village and city. Seeing the buses with their brilliantly clad passengers anyone who had been in Russia ten years back would have imagined he was there again. Theodor Steanoff, the famous dancer, headed the party.

TWO D. C. POLICEMEN SEARCH FOR BROTHER

Search has been instituted in Washington for Charles Franklin Lewis, forty-one years old, a brother of Policeman T. W. Lewis, of the Second precinct, and B. G. Lewis of the Sixth precinct, who has not been seen by members of the family for twenty years when he left his home in Maryville, Va. The last heard of Lewis was that he was in Omaha, Neb., in 1916. The brothers of Lewis believe that he may be in Washington and they have asked that a search be made for him. The mother of Lewis came here Monday from Cumberland and appealed to her sons to make a search for the missing son.

Socks Sans Garters New Mode For Flippers

Garters don't mean a thing in the young lives of the Nunnally Knights. Not no more they don't, if you are willing to take the word of several prominent flappers-about-town.

The "corner huggers and the languid lopers of Flapper Alley," the latest appellation of staid old F street—have decided to economize on sock suspenders and save their money for useful things like marshmallow sundaes "with a few nuts on top, please."

The low-hung sock is the latest innovation to join the ensemble of baggy trousers, enameled cigarette holders and baby siebuns.

The unwritten "What the Well Dressed Man Will Wear" of F street now prescribes: "Socks are being worn this season in close proximity to the shoe-tops, eliminating the useless and unattractive garter. The lower the socks fall, the higher the prestige. If a Flipper is known to trip over his socks, and can prove it by witnesses, he is entitled to a chocolate malted milk at the expense of every other Flipper in sight."

FOUR BICYCLES AMONG LOOT OF SNEAK THIEVES

Clothing, Cash Register Receipts and Tire Annexed By Thieves.

Four bicycles were among the loot stolen by thieves in Washington yesterday.

A bicycle belonging to Theodore Lambert, 202 G street southwest, was stolen from in front of a luncheon on Pennsylvania avenue, near Mississippi avenue southeast. Elmer Dooley, of Brentwood, Md., reported that his bicycle was taken from Fifteenth and G streets northwest. While James Stevenson, 1 Myrtle street northeast, was in the city postoffice yesterday, a thief stole his bicycle which he had left outside the building.

Forcing a rear door of the store of Steve Pappas, 3038 M street northwest, a thief rifled the cash register early this morning, stealing $5 and several cartons of cigarettes.

Gaining entrance into the Fashion Shop, Ninth and E streets northwest, by forcing several iron bars apart in a window in the rear of the store, thieves stole wearing apparel, valued at $423. H. D. Copenhagen, 3417 Rittenhouse street northwest, reported that his home was entered by thieves who stole a revolver and several articles of jewelry.

Returning to her home after a shopping tour downtown yesterday, Mrs. E. M. Riley, 1718 Corcoran street northwest, found that her apartment had been entered and everything in a window in the rear of the store, thieves stole wearing apparel, valued at $423. H. D. Copenhagen, 3417 Rittenhouse street northwest, reported that his home was entered by thieves who stole a revolver and several articles of jewelry.

A navy thief last night stole an automobile tire from the machine of George J. Sanderson, 710 Seventh street southeast, while the machine was parked at Sixth and F streets northwest.

D. C. PROPERTY VALUATION HAS HEAVY INCREASE

Assessment Recently Completed Reveals $38,000,000 Boost in Tangible Holdings.

William P. Richards, District Assessor, today submitted his annual report to the District Commissioners, the report covering the operations of his office from July 1, 1921, to June 30, 1922.

The report shows that the assessed value of land and improvements in the District, this assessment being made on two-thirds value, was $472,874,209, compared with $434,794,784 the previous year, an increase of more than $38,000,000.

The report shows the assessment resulted in a tax levy of $8,608,310.60, compared with $8,478,498.33 the previous year.

Mr. Richards announces that the biennial assessment of real estate, which is to be completed by the street assessment and summary of the first of January, 1923, will be open to inspection and review from the first Monday in January to the first Monday in June, 1923.

The personal tax levy for the fiscal year 1922 had a grand total of $4,106,443, the report shows.

The report points out that the law recently enacted by Congress provides for changing of the present practice of making the assessment on two-thirds value, to assessment on full value.

Total collections in the Water Department for taxes and interest totaled $86,425.56.

D. C. APPEALS TO CHECK SALE OF POOR COAL

Allen Asks Justice Department to Stop Distribution of 200 Tons.

An appeal to the Department of Justice to take some action to prevent shipping into and selling in Washington coal of poor quality will be made today by the District Commissioners.

Walter C. Allen, executive secretary of the Public Utilities Commission, made this announcement following the discovery that 200 tons of unfit coal were received here several days ago.

Mr. Allen said he had information that 600 more tons would soon be here and that 20,000 tons of the same quality is awaiting shipment at the Washington coal pier.

The 200 tons received here several days ago, coming in four carloads, makes a total of 400 tons of such coal brought into Washington.

Samuel C. Allen, executive secretary of the Public Utilities Commission, made this announcement following the discovery that 200 tons of unfit coal were received here several days ago.

Mr. Allen has information that attempts are being made to sell the coal to consumers and distributors, and he reiterated the warning given the other day by the commissioners. The warning urged the public to be careful in its purchase of coal, and told dealers that any attempt to sell this poor quality would result in a complaint being made to the District Attorney. It was suggested that coal dealers test all coal before purchasing.

Efforts to prevent the concern handling the coal from distributing it in Washington have been unsuccessful, the commissioners finding they are without authority.
